

Seasons

You most likely have a favourite season. Which one is it? Nature transforms itself from one season to the next, and our feelings vary accordingly. Many poems have been written on the seasons and some of these make us dream.

Your project

Form teams and look for poems on the seasons at the library and on the Internet.

Prepare a poetry reading for other classes, where each team member will present a poem. You can dress up to match your theme or use matching accessories.
